Johnson & Johnson Employee Tests Positive for COVID-19

Johnson & Johnson K.K can confirm that an employee of its Medical Company located at Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo tested positive for COVID-19 on 21 December.

In response, Johnson & Johnson has traced the employee's activities, followed the instructions of the public health center and continues to work in cooperation with related parties. The public health center has also confirmed that no customers, business partners or employees have been designated as a close contact of the infected employee. The business is operating with precautionary measures in place.

Throughout the pandemic, Johnson & Johnson has consistently worked to prevent the spread of the virus. This has included the restriction of business travel and in-person meetings, alongside the implementation of hygiene practices, such as hand washing, mask wearing, enhanced sanitization, physical distancing, and remote working.

Ensuring the safety of customers, business partners, employees and their families remains our top priority. Johnson & Johnson will continue to work closely with the relevant authorities and take appropriate action.
